Home of Performance Dogs In Action

Have you wondered how your dog would handle sheep or other livestock...Do you have some experience and want to learn new skills or build on the foundation you have...Are you just curious about the sport of herding? Then this camp is for you!

All herding breeds and handlers of every level of knowledge, skill and ability are welcome. Camp includes individual and group lessons, demonstrations, presentations, lunch, and access to a 6-acre off leash exercise field, pond, and agility arena. We have 3 options to choose from:

1. Evaluation, for those who would like to have their dogs' herding interest and instincts assessed. Includes a minimum of 1 individual lesson and the option of upgrading with a positive evaluation ($65)
2. Novice/Experienced, for dogs who have demonstrated an interest in herding and handlers who would like to build on their skills and learn new techniques. Includes a minimum of 2 individual lessons ($110)
3. Spectator, people only who want to learn about herding tools & techniques ($30)

OUR TRAINER Ian's focus at camp will be to customize each lesson to the participant's needs and level of skill, as well as to the individual breed; and to enhance what your skills with helpful tips, tools and techniques that will help you and your dog to grow as a team. Ian has been training and preparing herding dogs for work and trials for over 20 years. He hosts many national-level and local events on his farm in Scio, Oregon, where he raises and trains herding dogs, and manages a flock of over 100 sheep. Ian's reputation as a talented and intuitive instructor is well known with students throughout Oregon, Washington, California and Nevada. He is a trial judge and competes regionally with many of his own 6 Border Collies.
